This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

In accordance with the Public Statutes, the librarian of the state library submits the following report:—

In a former report, the incompleteness of the various series of books most frequently in use in the library was brought to the notice of the legislature, and the purchase of the volumes necessary to perfect these sets was recommended. Since that report no material advance has been made in the way suggested, nor without a special appropriation for the purpose will it be possible greatly to strengthen the library in the way planned. A considerable part of each annual appropriation, to be sure, has been expended, from time to time, in filling up these broken sets; but while, in this way, very important deficiencies of long standing have been remedied, yet as a consequence almost as serious needs have been created anew among current publications. So long as the regular appropriation is left thus encumbered by these diverse needs, accumulated from the far past, no satisfactory progress can be made. On the other hand, the special appropriation of a sufficient amount, made at the present time, would, once for all, free the library from its crippling load and bring about conditions wherein a small annual expenditure might, for the future, satisfactorily maintain the library in continued usefulness. Already considerable money has been used in bringing the library up to its present condition. The books already on its shelves represent a considerable merchantable value, apart from their importance for the uses of a library. This large outlay which has gone before must, inevitably, secure the smaller one now urged. By this alone will the real value of the entire work of the past become apparent. An everyday experience with the affairs of the library leaves the conviction that this comparatively small expenditure for the greater gain in value and usefulness will soon be demanded. There are many reasons why such an appropriation should come at this particular time. New libraries, especially in the western states, are springing up each year in increasing numbers, and, as the needs of all the law and legislative libraries of the country are nearly identical, the expense and difficulty of buying the volumes needed by each of these libraries are increasing yearly. Many of the older libraries, too, are securing from time to time special appropriations for similar purposes, and the standing appropriations which some of the state libraries spend annually for their accessions are so large as to influence the supply. For already the classes of books which are most needed to fill incomplete sets in this library are out of print, and thus the withdrawal of a small amount, even, affects the available supply.

The changed surroundings of the library, the new and commodious building now nearly ready for its accommodation, further mark the present as the opportune time for giving its collection the completeness necessary to assure practical utility. In the coming change from the present quarters to the new, the old order of the library, necessarily, will be broken up, and a complete re-classification will be inevitable. At such a time, large accessions will present no difficulties. In the future, they might cause temporary confusion and require additional labor and expense, by undoing what had once been accomplished. A printed catalogue of the library, too, has been commonly considered as forthcoming with the library in its new location, and certainly is a reasonable demand, necessary to make the library similarly useful to all portions of the state. A catalogue of broken and incomplete sets, however, would involve great waste of money. With such a catalogue, the multiplication of supplements would soon become cumbersome and inefficient for ordinary uses.

Moreover, besides becoming more effective within its present scope, the sphere of the library's usefulness should be enlarged. General works, directly and indirectly bearing upon the needs of legislation, of the administration of public affairs, and other important objects, should be added to the existing collection, and the library thus upbuilt in the spirit of the Statutes, which direct that the trustees "shall procure for the library full sets of the statutes and law reports of the United States, and of the several states; histories, including those of the counties and towns of this state whenever published; maps, charts, works on agriculture, political economy, the arts, and natural sciences; copies of state papers and publications relating to the material, social, and religious conditions of the people, or bearing upon the business and objects of legislation."

The standing annual appropriation is at present three thousand dollars,—a sum somewhat below that usually expended by the public libraries of our smaller cities. If it appear that this moderate appropriation cannot be greatly increased, even temporarily, it should be suspended during the ensuing six years, and a sum equivalent to the amount thus withheld should be given in a single appropriation, the entire amount to accrue within the two fiscal years following. In this way, the efficiency of the amount expended would be doubled, at the least. But whatever plan finally recommends itself for legislative action, it is certain that means should in some way be given to establish the library, in its new location, upon the broad and comprehensive basis contemplated and directed by the statutes.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT, ACCESSIONS, AND ISSUES.

Following is a detailed statement of the affairs of the library during the period covered by the report, as required by law. For all expenditures and receipts not appearing here, reference is made to the reports of the state treasurer.

Respectfully submitted:

ARTHUR R. KIMBALL,
State Librarian.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The list of Public Libraries now prepared is intended to include all libraries within the state regularly open to the public, or to some portions of the public. It is based upon returns made in accordance with chapter 31, Pamphlet Laws of 1893.

The following system of classification has been attempted:

Class I. Libraries owned by the town; excepting school libraries.

(a) Libraries controlled by cities or towns.

(b) Libraries independently or jointly controlled.

Class II. Libraries owned and controlled by organized associations or by individuals; excepting school libraries.

(a) By associations.

(b) By individuals.

Class III. Public school libraries.

Class IV. Libraries of schools and colleges owned and controlled by private corporations or by individuals.

Class V. Libraries owned by the state.

Of several of the libraries included in Class I (b), there is no legal ownership vested in the town organization, but an equitable one vested in the people of the town as cestuis que trust. In some instances these libraries derive their principal support from appropriations made by the town; in others, they receive nothing, at present, from this source.

Usually, appropriations made by towns and cities to libraries included in Class I (a) are expended for the purchase of books only, or for the purchase of books and for the incidental expenses of the library; the librarians' and assistants' salaries (and often the incidental expenses) being paid from the town treasury, as the salaries of other town officers. Hence, the amount directly appropriated does not represent the entire expenditure by towns and cities for the support of libraries.

It is to be hoped that all New Hampshire librarians under whose notice these statistics come, will recognize the future usefulness of the work and the necessity of accuracy and completeness in their returns. For the most part, officers of libraries and the clerks of the various towns and cities, have performed their share of the work willingly and with seeming care. Yet this has not been the case invariably, and much work in correspondence has been found necessary, in many cases, before full replies were elicited. Oftentimes the information sought was difficult for the clerks to obtain, not being contained in any records in their offices. In view of these difficulties and the newness of the work, the following tabulation is not set forth as containing a complete list of the libraries of the state. It is trusted, however, that a circulation of the library-statistics of the state, as herein presented, will render possible a more nearly complete and full compilation in the future. The large and unusual increase in the number of libraries since the returns of 1892 is chiefly due to the establishment of new libraries under the Free Public Library Act of 1891. The greater completeness of the present returns, however, may have some connection with the results. Towns having established libraries under the Free Public Library Act are designated by asterisks, in the accompanying tables. It will be seen that the amount of money appropriated by the legislature and expended by the state commission for the benefit of these new libraries is not included in the tabulations under "Annual public appropriation."

SUMMARY.

*In the report of the U. S. Bureau of Education upon "Public Libraries of the United States," 1876, the date of the opening of the State House in Concord, 1818, was taken as the date of founding of the State Library, or, rather, of establishment in "organized" form; but in the same report (ch. XII, pt. I) the date of origin is placed much earlier. The English authorities place the establishment of the library back into the colonial period. Edwards makes the statement that "New Hampshire took the lead in the establishment of a State Library"; see Edwards' "Free Town Libraries . . . in Britain, France, Germany, and America," pp. 277-278. In the "Encyclopædia Britannica," vol. XIV, p. 535, the date is stated to be "as early as 1777."

SECT. 11. The librarian shall file with the secretary of state, on or before the first day of October preceding each biennial session, a report to the legislature giving a detailed statement of the receipts and expenditures on account of the library, and separate lists of all books, maps, charts, and other documents lost, sold, purchased, and acquired by donation and exchange since the last report, and containing such recommendations and other matters as they may deem useful.

Dartmouth College Annual Catalogue 1820–1893.

"The first catalogue was printed at Windsor, June 15, 1788, on an e ght by ten inch sheet by the Freshman class, containing only the names of that class. Catalogues of the Sophomore class were afterward, from time to time, published by the respective classes prior to 1802, some of them on sheets but six inches square. The first official college catalogue was issued in 1802. It was printed on one side of a large sheet from 1802 to 1819. None was issued in 1812. . . . From the rival 'university,' catalogues on single sheets were issued in 1816 and 1817." [From Bibliography of Dartmouth College, Gran. Mo., V. 321.]
